

American Bladdernut

Staphylea trifolia

☼ White, bell-shaped flowers in drooping clusters appear in spring. Flowers give way to inflated, bladder-like, egg-shaped, papery seed capsules which mature in late summer and often persist into early winter. Seed capsules add interest to dried flower arrangements

☼ Fast-growing, large shrub or small tree that commonly occurs in bottomlands, woodland thickets and moist soils along streams

☼ Native to Ontario

Height: 10-15 Feet

Zone: 3

Partial Sun

Full Shade

Moist, Well-Drained

American Bladdernut is in recycled pots, please disregard any codes written on the pots.