

Horse Chestnut

Aesculus hippocastanum

- ❁ Attractive large shade or street tree with showy spires of white flowers and distinctive, hand-shaped shiny, green, compound leaves.
- ❁ Foliage takes on a reddish-brown hue in Fall.
- ❁ Nuts of horse chestnut are inedible and poisonous. Can cause death if eaten raw.

Height: 50-70 Feet

Zone: 2

Full Sun

Partial Sun

Moist, Well-Drained

Low Maintenance

Horse Chestnut is in recycled pots,
please disregard any codes written on the pots.